Surgery Center Finds Financial Security Amid COVID-19 with Nixon Medical's Flexible Agreements

Situation

A New York-based surgical center that specializes in same-day procedures was looking to change its medical apparel and linen provider during the beginning months of COVID-19. The center's management team had just changed, so the new Office Manager reached out to an affiliate center to see who they were using. The affiliate center recommended Nixon Medical, explaining how they reduced inventory levels during the shutdowns without a problem. This caught the attention of the Office Manager, as her existing vendor held the center responsible to 80% inventory minimums despite being shut down.

Solution

Nixon Medical partnered with the surgical center, plus two of the affiliate locations, providing financial security and peace-of-mind that in the event of another shutdown due to local, state, or federal regulations, the center(s) would not be charged for its unused medical apparel and linens. Nixon Medical was also able to keep costs down, limit disruption, and increase safety and productivity by providing pickup, delivery, and stocking services twice per week instead of three times like the previous vendor.

Results

Nixon Medical's flexible approach to inventory management and contract agreements during an unpredictable time in our country's history made this surgery center comfortable and confident in their decision. In addition to our flexible agreements and efficient service, we also demonstrated rapid responsiveness by working to accommodate an overnight shipment for scrubs and surgical gowns prior to the center becoming a client—an early example of our industry-recognized service difference.
